

MARKETING/COMMUNICATIONS SPECIALIST II

JOB DESCRIPTION

Classification Responsibilities: A Marketing/Communications Specialist II is a journey-level, professional classification responsible for developing, coordinating, and implementing a marketing, public relations, and/or education program for an assigned division or subdivision. A Marketing/Communications Specialist II is responsible for serving as an information resource to a variety of people such as citizens, contractors, architects, developers, business owners and their employees, news media, and community groups regarding an assigned area. Where marketing is the primary function of the position, the duties may include: handling electronic and print media activities, press releases, and advertising; meeting with interested parties to market or sell City programs and services; writing articles for publication; and graphic design work. Where public relations are the primary functions of the position, the duties include planning, developing, and implementing a variety of information for programs or materials to facilitate communication to employees, citizens, and the general public. Where education is the primary function of the position, the duties include: effectively educating a diverse public about program area issues in a positive manner; developing public education programs and materials for a variety of audiences; and attending neighborhood meetings, community events, school groups, church groups, club meetings, etc. A Marketing/Communications Specialist II may also be responsible for maintaining the division website. Scope of duties include: developing and producing division information using web technology; writing and designing pages for the website to keep it up-to-date, interesting, and interactive; and maintaining the website content to City specifications and design standards. In all situations it is important that the employee exercise a high degree of discretion and courtesy in dealing with the public. Public contact may be stressful at times when it entails confrontational meetings as a result of dissatisfied citizens, business owners, customers, etc. May have lead responsibilities for a project or team (by assignment). Responsibilities may also include supervision of clerical or paraprofessional classes. Employees in this class may perform any combination of marketing, public relations, or education duties as assigned. This class performs related duties as required.

Arts and Cultural Assignment: This assignment leads the Public Relations efforts primarily for Mesa Arts Center programs and events. Duties include writing, editing, and distributing press releases, pitching media, and acting as a media spokesperson (or identifying/preparing spokespeople for media interviews). Responsibilities of this assignment include public relations efforts for internal Mesa Arts Center departments, including the Performing Live events, Mesa Contemporary Arts Museum, art studios, engagement programs, development, community festivals and events, and facility rentals. Additional responsibilities may include researching and gathering artist materials to create press packets; concept development to produce marketing materials with the graphic designer; supporting production of videos; coordinating photographers and videographers; writing and editing emails, scripts, blogs, editorials, brochures, programs, and fliers; and other duties as needed. Some evening and weekend work for special events and early morning press events is required. This position is part of the City of Mesa Arts and Culture marketing team and occasionally provides collaborative support for team members at i.d.e.a. Museum and Arizona Museum of Natural History.

Energy Resources Assignment: Responsibilities will include gaining an in-depth understanding of Mesa's energy utilities' business models in order to design and implement programs that contribute to the financial success of the Energy Resources Department. The incumbent will have experience with coordinating energy utility meetings with developers and representatives from multiple city departments to ensure that energy utilities services are provided in an efficient, safe, reliable, timely, and cost-effective manner. This job classification will collect and analyze the costs to extend service to new or expanding customers and the associated revenues; incorporate such analyses into the negotiation of Service Extension Agreements; and prepare agreements for execution by Department Management. Service Agreements also require ongoing administration, including monitoring of revenues.

Engineering Assignment: Public Relations is the primary function of the Engineering Assignment. Duties will include extensive public outreach regarding capital improvement projects. In-person contact with a variety of residents, businesses, and organizations is expected. Having a background and understanding of civil construction is necessary to properly foresee, educate, and resolve situations related to construction activities. Exercising a high degree of unbiased discretion and courtesy in these frequent interactions is required. Takes an active role in coordination between contractors, engineers, City departments, business owners, and the public. Will research, analyze, and resolve public inquiries or complaints; and act as a liaison and a central point of contact between the City of Mesa, businesses, and the public. Many forms of public notification are used to reach our diverse population. Experience developing and distributing both digital and print media, at times this requires door-to-door notification in the summer heat. Ability to organize and participate in Engineering special events and public meetings.

Fire and Medical Department Assignment: Responsibilities will primarily focus on digital content development and digital storytelling, including developing, writing, editing, and producing videos and shooting and editing photography. Other duties will include: graphic design work supporting the creation of social content, publications, presentations, and newsletters; creating and managing social media posts and digital content across social media platforms; interacting with and responding to questions from the public via email and social media; supporting the development and maintenance of the department website; and supporting the public recognition program, which may include verifying information and coordinating recognition details. The assignment may require early morning, evening, and weekend work.

Hispanic Outreach Assignment: The Hispanic Outreach assignment assists in the implementation of a Citywide communications plan; and develops and produces public information programs and publications, which are marketed to Mesa's Hispanic citizens, businesses, visitors, and Hispanic media.

Solid Waste Assignment: Responsibilities also include digital content development and digital storytelling, including developing, writing, editing, and producing videos and shooting and editing photography. Other duties will include: graphic design work supporting the creation of social content, publications, presentations, and newsletters; creating and managing social media posts and digital content across social media platforms; interacting with and responding to questions from the public via email and social media; supporting the development and maintenance of the department website; and participating in seasonal events, special events, public school and neighborhood presentations, and other educational services. This assignment may require evening and weekend work.

Transportation Assignment: Responsibilities will include developing, implementing, and overseeing comprehensive community education and outreach campaigns; maintaining the Transportation Department's internal and external webpages; creating and managing social media posts and other digital content across all social media platforms; performing public outreach for Transportation activities and projects; coordinating and participating in events that may involve some evening and weekend work; interacting and responding to questions from the public regarding Transportation projects; creating and maintaining various forms of media for public notifications pertaining to Transportation projects; providing the appropriate coverage, updates, information, and support for staff to ensure the public has up-to-date information during emergencies, including weather-related events, storms, and monsoons which may include field visits to affected areas; creating various documents for internal department communication, including employee newsletters, department presentations, and other information related to employee development; coordinating department wide meetings and new employee orientation sessions; and developing marketing plans to promote the City's Transportation Plan, safety programs, the Bike and Pedestrian program, and other related transportation programs and issues.

Water Resources Assignment: Responsibilities also include maintaining the Water Resources website; creating social media posts, and other digital content to relay key messages to customers; updating scheduled publications (including the Consumer Confidence Report) and school educational materials; promoting Water Resources' programs through television segments and community events; graphic design; maintaining editorial calendars and internal communications; developing marketing plans to promote the Know Your H2O water education/outreach program and other related water/wastewater programs; and pursuing creative funding opportunities including grants and fundraising for special projects. Some evening and weekend work for special events may be required.

Distinguishing Features: This class is distinguished from the Marketing/Communications Specialist I classification by performing work of greater complexity and scope, and by the considerable latitude exercised and minimal supervision required. A significant element of work involves public contact of a specialized nature, which requires patience, tact, and persuasion in dealing with citizens, news media, representatives, and businesspersons who are affected by City programs or projects. This class is FLSA exempt-administrative.
