

ACCOUNT CLERK

JOB DESCRIPTION

Classification Responsibilities: An Account Clerk is responsible for basic entry-level account maintenance, bookkeeping, and clerical accounting work. Duties may include: processing and/or verifying daily deposits; recording revenue to create monthly reports; processing and recording invoicing and refund documents; reconciling monthly statements; verifying and filing check runs; opening and distributing mail to appropriate areas (example: remittance information, vendor files, computer printouts, microfiche, reference material); organizing and maintaining accounting files (example: journal vouchers, refunds, store issue tickets, replacement checks, miscellaneous reference material, reports, etc.); and ordering new and replacement accounting forms. Other duties include: responding to general requests and inquiries (example: researching payment information, locating files and reports, etc.); performing simple arithmetic computations, posting data to records of original entry; checking forms for completeness and accuracy; and picking up or delivering accounting documents to or from, and/or verifying assets in other City offices; extracting data and completing research using ledgers, reports, and vendor files to compile information on closed projects; reviewing accounts payable documents to identify, photocopy, and file capital asset information. An Account Clerk also operates a personal computer and a variety of standard office machines and related equipment; distributes checks and reports; and prepares documents and forms for storage. This class performs related duties as required.

Distinguishing Features: An Account Clerk normally functions within a reasonably clear and well defined set of guidelines and procedures. As a result of this, incumbents are expected to independently handle day-to-day work assignments with only the unusual problems being referred to a supervisor. This class is supervised by an Accounting Specialist in Accounts Payable or Property Accounting, who reviews work through spot checks of work, conferences, and evaluation of results achieved. This class is FLSA nonexempt.
