

PROCUREMENT SUPERVISOR

JOB DESCRIPTION

Classification Responsibilities: A Procurement Supervisor handles highly complex, professional-level purchasing tasks associated with formal and informal purchasing, contract negotiations, scope of work development, interpreting and creating final contract documents involving a wide variety of materials, supplies, equipment, and services for the City, and supervises Procurement Officer and/or Procurement Specialist positions as assigned. Procurement Supervisors are responsible for handling the City's most complex procurements and departments and representing the Procurement Administrator as required. Employees are required to work with department subject matter experts or executive staff to help develop specifications and may be required to conduct specialized research on contracts. Procurement Supervisor may be required to work on high profile and sensitive procurements, including national cooperative contracts. Employees in this class are responsible for the following duties: communication with suppliers, contractors, and department officials and employees regarding purchase requisitions, specifications, bids, contracts, orders, and related matters; the drafting, review, and comparison of specifications and prices of competitive items; the examination, inspection, and comparison of the quality of merchandise and/or services purchased or to be purchased by the City; the drafting, editing, review, and interpretation of contract terms, conditions, and specifications; the evaluation of proposals, bids, and quotations; and the awarding, final negotiation, and/or recommendation of contract awards within prescribed limits. The Procurement Supervisor leads the team for maximum employee productivity and morale through hiring, disciplining, evaluating employee performance, investigating and resolving grievances, and other human resources actions. The Procurement Supervisor maintains professional knowledge and promotes professional development of staff by attending seminars, reviewing professional publications, participating in professional organizations, assessing training needs, developing materials and programs, conducting training programs and identifying training opportunities. This class is responsible for performing related work as required.

Distinguishing Features: The Procurement Supervisor class is distinguished from the Procurement Officer I and II class by requiring the performance of supervisory duties and the greater degree of independence under which work is performed. Incumbents may advise Procurement Officers I/II and Procurement Specialists on more complex matters. This class is also responsible for performing related duties and representing the Procurement Administrator as required. Administrative direction is received from the Procurement Administrator who reviews work through reports, conferences, and the evaluation of overall results achieved. This class is FLSA exempt-professional.
